

UTAH NEWSPAPERWOMEN

Female Editors Were First in Other Fields, Too

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles on women who figured prominently in Utah history.

By Jane Edwards
SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE

She felt sick every morning for a week upon opening the door of her shop. At age 32, Kate Jean Boan — the 10th of Utah's 14 women editors during the 19th century — agonized over the printing of her newspaper's first issue.

Knowing little about printing, Boan had responded to a Sears and Roebuck advertisement three months prior and become the bewildered owner of a press "the size and shape of a small grindstone."

"When I looked at it," Boan said, "and considered that I was in debt $300 for that little load of strange junk, I had a panic. Jim Barker, the only printer in the county, who had promised to set it up for me did not come." She wished it would explode.

But it didn't, and on Jan. 2, 1891, Vernal's first newspaper, the Uintah Pappoose hit the stands.

Boan's history of prevailing over life's challenges should have been testimony enough that she could overcome difficulties of editing and publishing a newspaper.

Kate Jean O'Melia was born May 13, 1859. Her mother died giving birth to her only daughter. Kate and her older brother were taken into custody by separate families to enable their father to serve the Union Army in the Civil War.

Her father was one of 25,000 to lose his life in the Battle of Shiloh in 1862. Three-year-old Kate was adopted by an Episcopalian minister, never to

NEW LAND LAWS.

Sec. 6 That this law shall not affect any valid rights heretofore secured under said act of March 8, 1877, but all bona fide claims heretofore lawfully obtained may be perfected, upon due compliance with the provisions of said act, in the same manner, upon the same terms and conditions, and subject to the same limitations, forfeitures, and contests as if this act had not been passed; or said claims, at the option of the claimant, may be perfected and patented under the provisions of said act, as amended by this act, so far as applicable; and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

"Sec. 7. That any time after filing the declaration and within the period of 4 years thereafter, upon making satisfactory proof to the register and the receiver of the reclamation and cultivation of said land to the extent and cost and in the manner aforesaid, and substantially in accordance with the plans herein provided for, and that he or she is a citizen of the United States, and upon payment to the receiver of the additional sum of $1 per acre for said land, a patent shall issue therefor to the applicant or his assigns; but no person or association of persons shall hold by assignment or otherwise, prior to the issue of patent, more than 320 acres of such arid or desert lands, but this section shall not apply to entries made or initiated prior to the approval of this act; Provided, however, That additional proofs may be required at any time within the period prescribed by law, and that the claims or entries made under this or any preceding act shall be subject to contest, as provided by the laws relating to homestead cases, for illegal inception, abandonment, or failure to comply with the requirements of the law, and upon satisfactory proof thereof shall be canceled, and the lands, and moneys paid therefor, shall be forfeited to the United States.

A SAD ACCIDENT AT PRICE.

On last Saturday the thirteen year old son of Charles Johnson, who lives three quarters of a mile south east of town, was going to water his horse when Mr Johnson was startled by the cry of his little daughter of "Oh my brother." Jumping from the house Mr Johnson was compelled to witness the horse running at full speed dragging the boy after him, with the halter fastened to the boys wrist. The horse ran around the corral jumping across an old potato pit then into the lane and on toward town. The horse being young and active his speed only seemed to increase until lost to view in the direction of town. When he reached town he was stopped with other horses near Horsley's corral. Wm Petersen saw the horse running and made haste after him but only to find the boys helpless body fastened to the rope. On examination it was found that the chills neck was broke, skull fractured and very much bruised otherwise —Telegraph.

The Pappoose representative ran up against Harman Knobles just down from the mine. He says everything is very quiet up there. The "Dyer" is working three men, merely prospecting. John Mack and another man are sinking a shaft on the "Pearl" belonging to T. A. Mitchell & Co.; they are down about 30 feet have some copper stain etc. Mr Shell and others are in the mountains in the interest of a company who intend locating a town site; nothing definite however has been done in this direction; "too much snow in fact for anything." Mr Knobles is down after supplies for his boarding house.

Andrew Dudley came near losing a pair of mares last Friday at Reynold's mill. He watered the team by driving them into the canal and upon attempting to come out they became unmanageable finally miring, and had it not been for the assistance of R. Bodilly and Lewis workman the horses would undoubtedly have been drowned.

The closing exercises of the Vernal central school, for the third term, were held in J. R. Workman's Hall Friday, April 3rd. A goodly number of parents and friends met with the children, showing the interest they felt in them, and their presence gave much encouragement to pupil and teacher. The pieces rendered by the students were very praise worthy. The report of teachers shows marked advancement in different grades.

From Chart to First Reader 21. From 1st to 2nd Reader 21. From 3rd to 4th Reader 6. The party in the afternoon and the one in the evening seemed to be enjoyed by all who participated. Halma.

The Pappoose representative had the good fortune to attend what appeared to be an adjourned session of the committee appointed to draft by-laws for the Farmers Alliance or as their preamble names it "The Farmer mutual Benefit Equitable Association of Uintah County," held in an upper room of J. R. Workman's residence. The reporter made known his business and was made heartily welcome. Mr. Workman in short speech giving the little Pappoose in his blunt way, as fine a recommendation as it has probably ever received, advising all to patronise it as it deserves. We the meeting succeeded in formulating great number of by laws etc. by the way in rather a hotch potch condition. Messrs Collier and O'Neil were then selected a committee to straighten out the chaos
